Happy Neighbors Toolkit

Happy Neighbors is a UC Berkeley program that builds awareness of neighborhood expectations, policies and accountability needed for optimal relationships among students and long-term neighbors. Small things can make a big difference in the quality of life for all who live, work, study and play in a neighborhood.

What you will find in this toolkit:

- Tips and best practices
- Moving off campus check list
- Are you a good neighbor self-assessment
- 10 ways to be the best tenant
- What’s at stake, laws and policies
- History
- Resources

These tips emerged from the ongoing partnership and activities of PartySafe@Cal and the Office of Government and Community Relations. Our top five recommendations:

1. Attend neighborhood meetings every semester, convening students and neighbors along with representatives from city and campus staff, Police, Student Conduct, Greek Life, PartySafe@Cal, and Government and Community Relations.
2. Stay connected with our Welcome to the Neighborhood flier targeting new and returning off campus student residents.
3. Organize with other neighbors to post City of Berkeley “Quiet Hours” signs, pass out resource information, give periodic reminders and prepare for move-in/move-out weekends.
4. If you’re a student, participate in peer outreach to historically problematic properties, engaging and educating other student residents about neighborhood expectations and policies.
5. Happy Neighbors will coordinate with Residential staff meetings at start of semester in which neighbors and staff recognize shared issues with transient noise and identify and commit to mutually beneficial prevention and intervention strategies.
Moving off campus?

We hope that being part of the vibrant resident hall community this year has added value to your UC Berkeley experience. It’s likely you’ve found it exciting as well as challenging at times. We hope you gained awareness and found your voice for engaging in the wide ranging, and sometimes difficult conversations and relationships required in a diverse and world class community.

As you move to a residential neighborhood around the campus area, use the knowledge and skills you’ve learned this year. Demonstrate, in your next community, what it means to be a Cal Bear and a good neighbor. It’s important - and easy. Here’s a checklist to help you on the path to your next home.

April

- Choose Your Roommate(s)
  Do you want to live alone, with strangers or friends? What kind of people do you want to surround yourself with? What kind of roommate are you? Be realistic - no roommate situation will be perfect and conflicts will arise. Check out these resources for looking for and choosing the right roommate.

- Choose Your Neighborhood
  What type of place do you want (e.g. studio, apartment, co-op, shared room)? What’s your budget? Do you need parking for your bike, scooter, or car? Where is the closest laundry mat, market, or café? What are you inheriting? Ask about the property’s history and the last tenants. Were they loud or have lots of parties? In addition to the leaky faucet, you may be inheriting the drama the previous residents left behind, along with their unwanted furniture. And your neighbors won’t cut you slack because you are new.

May

- Move Out
  Quiet hours are 24-hours a day for two weeks starting May 2. Please be courteous to your neighbors by observing this period. There will be a fee of $100 if you are not checked out by May 17 at 10am. Make sure you take everything; you won’t be able to get back in. Find helpful links and the Move-Out Checklist at Cal Housing.
Summer

- Get Involved
  Most areas have a neighborhood association where residents collaborate on issues like safety, community projects & improvement, and maintaining lines of communication between the neighbors, the university, and the city. Join your neighborhood group and be an active part of the community. If you need help finding or reaching out to your neighborhood association, you can contact calhappyneighbors@gmail.com and the project coordinator will get you that information.

- Learn Community Expectations
  Educate yourself on your rights and responsibilities. In addition to following the Student Code of Conduct, you must also know and obey the rules of the city. Berkeley has many laws that support a peaceful neighborhood. A few ordinances that pertain to you can be found in the Welcome to the Neighborhood flier and also later in this tool kit.

August

- Move In
  Get your bills in order and make sure you pay rent on time. Most banks have online bill pay, and apps like Google Wallet, Pay Pal, and Venmo makes paying people that much easier.
  Stay on top of your academic due dates and Get your Bearings with this calendar of events on campus.

- Get to Know Your Neighbors
  They could be a Nobel laureate or a prominent professional in your field. You probably have more in common than you think. Smile and say hello! Exchange contact information in case you need to reach them about a party, maybe even invite them to it. Respect their peace and privacy, as they will respect yours.

- Make the Commitment to be a Good Neighbor
  You’re unpacked. You’ve cooked your first meal in your new kitchen. You found where the nearest café is. The semester is getting into high gear. Being a good neighbor is not difficult, but takes steady effort. Be conscientious of late night noise, make sure the trash gets inside the bin, and entertain responsibly. You’ll be well on your way to being a good neighbor and avoid steep fines as well. Be accountable to your home, yourself, your community.
  Are you a good neighbor? Take this following self-assessment quiz to find out!
Next year…

◊ Plan Ahead

Will you be staying in this same place next year or will you find another place to live? Remember, putting unwanted furniture on the sidewalk or in the public right of way is illegal dumping, and overflowing bins can also result in citations and fines, resulting in imprisonment and fines of $1000 a day. At the urging of residents and elected officials, City teams are preparing to cite violators more quickly than ever before! Cal Move Out has tips and resources to help you move out like a good neighbor. Start by planning ahead!

10 Easy Ways To Be The Best Tenant Ever While Living Off Campus
By Alexandra Brown, via ULoop, 2014

1. Pay your rent on time.
   It’s important to remember that paying rent on time is what you agreed to in your lease. Set a reminder on your phone, mark it on your calendar and remind your roommates.

2. Be polite and reasonable with your requests.
   When you’re noting problems with your house/apartment to your landlord, you should aim to be as polite and respectful as possible. They probably won’t go out of their way to help you right away if you’re anything other than pleasant.

3. Have basic house maintenance skills.
   In order to have to bother your landlord with as little frequency as possible, move in to your new place with a basic knowledge of maintenance skills. These include, but are not limited to: unclogging a toilet, changing a light bulb and fixing the toilet flush lever.

4. Put yourself in your landlord’s shoes.
   As you should do in any situation in life, put yourself in your landlord’s shoes. How would you want your tenants to act? Probably with respect, politeness and consideration.

5. Don’t be careless.
   Do your part by cleaning up after yourself, and taking proper precautions to avoid potential damage that could occur.

6. Let your landlord know about serious problems as they occur.
   When maintenance issues occur in your apartment or house, like the refrigerator light goes out, or paint is chipping, or windows won’t close properly, it’s important to let your landlord know as soon as possible as the problems are happening, so they don’t get worse.

7. Be reachable and approachable.
   If you want to have a good relationship with your landlord, you need to be approachable, and, more importantly, reachable. No one likes a flake.

8. Be respectful.
   Treat your landlord how you would like to be treated by them, and how you would want to be treated as a landlord yourself, by other tenants. Form a good relationship with your landlord right off the bat and avoid later problems.

9. Communicate clearly.
   You can’t expect your landlord to meet your every need if you’re not clear about what you specifically want. Be concise, and to the point, to avoid confusion and further delay.

10. Follow rules.
    This should also be obvious, but you should follow the rules as they are stated directly and clearly in your lease. One example of this is having pets in your apartment/house. If your lease requires that you pay a pet fee to have pets, pay the fee. If your lease forbids pets, don’t try to get away with having them. If you’re not supposed to paint walls, don’t paint them. If you’re allowed to, make sure to paint them back to their original color.
What’s at Stake…

Happy Neighbors encourages students and neighbors to know community laws and penalties as well as their rights and responsibilities. People who are aware of legal risks and consequences modify their behavior to lower their risk. Campus, city and state agencies work together to enforce policies and laws in the campus area.

Campus Policies

Chancellor’s Principles of Community
Developed collaboratively by students, staff, faculty, and alumni, the Chancellor’s Principles serve as a guide for personal and collective behavior on and off campus.

This defines conduct prohibited by the University of California and explains the administrative procedures the University uses to resolve reports of Prohibited Conduct.

Berkeley Campus Policy Governing the Promotion of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco Products on the Campus and at Campus Sponsored Events
This policy prohibits advertisement and promotion of certain brands of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products on campus, or in conjunction with campus-sponsored activities or events.

History

Happy Neighbors was created by a group of Berkeley students in the summer of 2009 to create awareness and optimal neighbor relations through peer education and outreach. The logo and campaign messages developed by these founders are still the core today. In Fall 2010, the Happy Neighbors postcard campaign reached 4000 students in the residential halls preparing to move off-campus for the first time.

In Fall 2011, the Parker-Piedmont Neighborhood Watch Group, in partnership with PartySafe@Cal, received a small grant from the Chancellor's Community Partnership Fund to pilot additional Happy Neighbors activities. Over a four-year period, the sustained efforts of students and neighbors working together achieved steady declines in complaints related to late night and transient noise and a decrease of "repeat nuisance incidents." In Fall 2014, Happy Neighbors expanded to work with neighbors and students in all four Southside neighborhoods: Parker Piedmont; Dwight Hillside; Willard; Leconte.
